WATER COMMISSIONERS' REPORT

Information received from the officers of the fire department indicated an immediate necessity of replacing the old main on Beech Street. Tuberculation had reduced the static flow at the terminal of the four-inch main to almost nothing and it was decided to replace the 800 feet on Beech Street with six-inch cast iron.

The sidewalk elevation and location of the sewer system left no alternative but to lay the line, for the most part, in the middle of the street. This meant disturbing and replacing about 600 sq. yds. of highway surface. In spite of this expense and the difficult trench excavation, the cost of approximately $4,000.00 dollars for the job, was comparable with present day costs for construction of this type. It was financed through our cash reserve and added to the fixed capital account.

A glance at the treasurer's report and it becomes obvious that the general maintenance expense of the utility was somewhat below normal. We usually experience some difficulty throughout the winter months with freezing, but a mild winter plus added protection from this source of trouble, contributed toward keeping expenditures in this account at a minimum.

The pumping station equipment gave very little trouble during the year. It might be of interest to note here that 38,200,000 gallons of water was pumped from the well during the year.

Problems for the coming year, such as fluoridation, standpipe maintenance, storage space and shop facilities, and rates, are receiving special consideration.

MUNICIPAL COURT

This report is presented to make more of our townspeople aware of the remarkable expansion in the work of Bristol Municipal Court during the last four years, a development which I did not anticipate when I agreed to become justice in September 1954. In 1954 there were only 27 cases brought into court, in 1955 the number increased to 36, in 1956 it jumped to 229 cases, and in 1957 the case load nearly doubled again – to 424 complaints entered.

Bristol's location at the intersection of two heavily travelled state highways, and more pertinently the increasingly vigilant patrolling of our roads by state and local police, in the attempt to reduce the terrible accident and death toll in this state, have combined to make Bristol's Municipal Court so active. 380 of the 424 cases entered in 1957 were motor vehicle violations, and 17 were fish and game offenses.

While the real aims of a municipal court are the speedy and impartial administration of justice, with the goal of improved respect for law and order, and the promotion of public and private safety, the Town has incidentally derived a considerable income from its share of the fines and forfeits, as shown on the summary below:

	1957	1956
Total fines, fees, and forfeits received	$5,875.50	$3,287.50
Less State's share	3,452.40	1,899.00
Town's share	$2,423.10	$1,388.50

Less court expenses	102.64	138.38
Balance turned over to Town	$2,320.46	$1,250.12

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

It is hoped that this report may be made brief and to the point. On the other hand there is much in "ferment" in the field of education and this is the one means, once a year, of reaching the people of Bristol.

One function of a superintendent, in my opinion, is to provide ideas and processes whereby the education of the individual child becomes better. It is a poor superintendent who can not come up with enough ideas in 15 minutes to increase a budget 50%! The job of the school board, and through them, the district, is to "pick and choose" actual things, if any, to be done. We will attempt to show how this actually works in Bristol, what it implies, and possible solutions.

Early in the year a team from the state board spent the better part of a day here making an inspection of the high school in relation to the new minimum standards. The report consists of items required to meet the standards, and those recommended. The addition of an activity in the audio-visual arts will meet the minimums. This will not be too difficult to do. In the recommended category were several items: 1) adding two new members to the staff to permit a physical education program, and a guidance service; 2) expanded library facilities; 3) increased amounts of money for biology equipment, charts, models, etc. Obviously the first one requires a large expenditure of money. The last two are largely a matter of relatively small increases of funds programmed over a few years, plus freeing time of some teacher to give wise planning and expenditures of library money since there otherwise might be no limit to money spent on relatively useless material.

This committee did not consider elementary education, nor is it their function, but it is our function, and elementary education is the base for all secondary programs. In this field we have needs here, as others have elsewhere. A secondary school of 250 pupils now requires one full-time non-teaching principal. An elementary school of the same number should have a part time teaching principal if not actually the same as the high school. We need, in Bristol, to free the principal of some of his teaching load in order that he may do more testing of individual pupils and make the necessary home visits, to observe and consult with the elementary teachers, to co-ordinate teacher skills and activities in curriculum study and practises, and to be free to provide leadership which in itself requires time to think, time free from all other distractions. Elementary pupils need physical education, art, and related activities as much as high school pupils. We are locally, as is nationwide, having more slow learning pupils in our schools who require special teaching skills, great amounts of time, and whose achievements will never be average. These pupils should have special classes and teachers, and it should not be forgotten that by so doing we are at the same time allowing the regular teacher more time to work with the average and superior pupil.

The question now becomes which of the above problems, and there are others, will we attempt to solve? These are the decisions the school board must make in order to make a budget and to secure your approval. It is not easy to assign priorities to such problems when large amounts of money are involved. At this moment the school board has shown its independence of thinking and has made two big decisions: 1) to increase teachers' salaries to maintain a very capable staff and to improve it when opportunities exist; 2) to hire an extra teacher for the high school to be assigned solely, if possible, to the scientific field. The first of these must be done for it is ever increasingly difficult to replace competent teachers; it is seldom done at the same or lower salary level. The second of these decisions seems more important than any of the suggestions recommended in the state report. In the light of national affairs this must be considered Bristol's contribution, and not a small one, to the drive to secure more and better candidates for college scientific programs. If this teacher can be hired it may well be that some progress may be made in guidance and in library direction. The exactness and detail can not be stated until all personnel is hired, assigned duties, and actual time scheduled.

Obviously most of the problems previously mentioned will remain problems with no great amounts of time or money being given towards various solutions. This raises the question in my mind about which too little is ever said or written, and I give it to you only as my own. I have lived long enough to see the schools severely, and at times unreasonably, criticized for about everything relating to human behavior and learning. Immediately following such criticisms those being most vocal make an about face and demand that schools furnish the remedy! The lack of scientific brains is the problem of the moment. Sooner or later, if facts justify the criticisms in whole or in part, schools work towards better solutions. This has resulted in home-making courses, industrial arts course, driver education courses, physical education programs, personal guidance in school and personal affairs, in "remedial reading", in teaching the slow learner, in various recreational hobbies, etc. We have no quarrels with this but have an observation or two to make. Although there remains much to learn in the field of human behavior, educators do know enough to do much with all the above questions and many more. One does not need to be a genius to hire a physical education expert and put him to work, or to provide at cost (or less) one third of a child's basic food requirements for a day. The primary thing educators need is money to put into production many proven ideas. We can educate in public schools the educable child, we can train the trainable, and we can stretch the minds of the gifted, provided we are supplied with the basic commodity needed to do the job, good American dollars. Now, in the light of all of the above, I submit that we in Bristol are not going to be able to supply all the dollars necessary; neither is any other district depending on the property owner for 80%, or more, of its educational dollar. If the need of scientists is a national problem there must be national support towards its solution; if training the feebleminded is a state problem the state has greater obligations to fulfill than it has yet dont. Good education is not cheap. The best is none too good for the citizens of the United States. Our national income has reached new peaks never dreamed of in "New Deal Days" and yet we spend a smaller percentage for education today than we did in 1940.

The decisions of the Bristol School Board have not been easy to make; they may be more difficult tomorrow, and the day after tomorrow. We have many unsolved problems in Bristol, and in the nation, but we have few, if any, that the wise expenditure of money either for meeting the problems at hand, or for research, will not solve. What price survival?

Respectfully submitted,

C. MAURICE GRAY

Superintendent
